

Ali Webb

Ali Webb is a climate change communicator and filmmaker. He founded and runs Change the Climate, a non-profit that educates and inspires citizens to take climate action through talks, workshops and events. Ali is a trained Climate Reality Leader and in July 2021 attended the Mind & Life Summer Research Institute as an emerging leader. He runs Webb Street Studios, a video production company that is passionate about creating experiences that connect people to one another and the world around them. When not presenting or filming, Ali can be found befriending trees or singing Elton John covers at home on his houseboat.

His talk at the conference will be 'The Climate Crisis and Its Solutions' an hour-long, interactive and engaging presentation on the climate crisis and its solutions. Learn what caused the UK's unprecedented heatwave last August, why the arctic is on fire and it's snowing in Rome, the difference between sending an email and a cheeseburger, and what soil has to do with solving it all. The talk will cover the science, causes, impacts and solutions of climate change, as well as explore the importance of COP26 and what you can do to make a difference in this crucial year.
